DAVIS AND THE PENSION ORDER.

What sort of a friend of the old soldier is Henry G. Davis? Where does he stand on pensions? Does he believe in rewarding the defenders of the flag? Apparently not, if we judge by his Charleston speech in which he made vigorous objection to the president's order designed to bring aid and comfort to those veterans who had passed the age of 62 and were no longer able to earn a living by manual labor. Here is Mr. Davis' opinion of the president's order, frankly expressed in his speech at Charleston, on April 21:

"Apparently for votes and political advantage the president has approved a ruling of the pension bureau without direct law or consent of Congress, which will put upon the pension bureau thousands of able-bodied men and cost the government annually many millions of dollars."

That's what Henry G. Davis thinks of the president's order which will relieve thousands of veterans, not so prosperous and fortunate as himself but who are now in the sere and yellow leaf, who need the government's help and who richly deserve it for their great services in the crisis of '61. Mr. Davis hasn't any sympathy with these old men who fought for the union while he was a government contractor laying the foundation for a fortune and he'd rather see the money stay in the treasury than give it to them. He'd pare down the pensions and let the old soldiers shift as best they could.

In his letter of acceptance President Roosevelt shows that his famous order was backed by every warrant of law and had the highest precedents. And it has the endorsement of the whole people. Only a few disgruntled mugwumps and Democratic politicians like Davis groping for an issue have criticized the order and raised the sordid plea of economy against the performance of our plain duty to the man who saved the union. They look upon natural, patriotic sympathy for the veteran as a vote-catching game and can see no motives but base and selfish ones in the laudable desire to treat kindly the boys in blue who are now nearing the grave.

Mr. Davis says he is opposed to the pension order. Will he dare pledge its revocation if elected?

THE PEOPLE FOR THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

Reports come from all over the state pointing to a great Republican victory in November. The people believe in the great policies of the Republican party. They want the canal built, they want American rights upheld in every part of the world, they want the protective tariff maintained, they want the gold standard to stay established, they want the old soldiers fairly treated, they want the Philippine question solved in the broadest and most humane manner.

They know what the Republican party has done in this state. They know its administrations have been wise, economical and progressive. They know it has collected more taxes without raising the rate and disbursed the people's money more honestly and carefully than the Democrats ever did. They know the Dawson corporation law has put over a million and a quarter of dollars into our treasury. They know all legislation has been along progressive lines and they realize that the only hope of a fair and equitable revision of the laws lies with the Republican party.

And knowing all these things they don't want any change of administration. The party that has guarded and advanced the state's interests so splendidly will be retained in power to continue its grand work for the upbuilding and advance-ment of our commonwealth.

$33,000.00 SAVED THE STATE EVERY YEAR.

In the matter of state printing, blinding and stationery Democratic incompetence and extravagance reached its high water mark. During the last seven years of Democratic administration an average of $54,687.19 was paid out annually while the average sum expended by the Republicans is only $21,943.50, a positive saving to our tax payers of nearly $33,000.00 yearly. And this splendid work was accomplished in the face of the fact that the state is growing and more printing is required than ever before. These figures like those in other departments of the state government speak eloquently for the Republican way of managing things.

This business was under the direction of the secretary of state, now candidate for governor and shows his capacity and ability in a striking way.

It is the man for the governor's chair.

THE REPUBLICAN WAY.

All our state institutions are in splendid condition. Large sums have been expended in buildings for the Normal Schools, University, Preparatory Schools, Miners' Hospitals, Insane Asylums, Reform Schools and humane reformatory and penal institutions, as well as the Capitol. All these expenses have been defrayed without increasing direct state taxes on property, and with small increase in the valuations of real and personal property for purposes of state or local taxation or revenue.

When the Democrats turned over the state administration and books to the Republicans at the end of Governor MacCorkle's term there was an apparent balance of $238,980.45, but deficits and unpaid accounts falling due during his administration amounting to $238,149.73 were paid during the first two years of Governor Atkinson's term, leaving an actual balance of only $839.72.

"SAFE AND SANE."

Sad words are those that utter from Graeland, the joy and pride of Randolph county, the home of the Hon. Cassaway Davis, the Democratic candidate for the vice presidency. A dismal and shocking ultimatum that fifty thousand dollars is the limit for all purposes. How can the campaign be made safe? Who said it was sane, anyway?

Cornwell's pretension of being a tax reformer falls flat because of the fact that he mentions absolutely nothing along the line of taking the place of the system, which has been in vogue in this state ever since the war. It does not answer the purpose to protest against the present movement in that direction by the Republican party in this state. The man who contends that he does not approve of something and suggests nothing that he does approve of has no policy upon which to appeal to the people. The sum and substance of his speech here was that Democrats must oppose what Republicans do, no matter how good the things are that Republicans do.

If there was anything that was needed to arouse the Republicans to exertion it has been the letter of acceptance of President Roosevelt. It is a masterpiece, and will cause not only the Republicans to rally round the national standard bearer, but will appeal with irresistible force to the intelligence and patriotism of the country at large. There is no mistaking the challenge to the opposition nor the strength of the Republican position.

Having come and gone, those who heard him naturally wonder what Cornwell's platform is. They did not learn from him, because of the fact that he did not say. All who are Democrats and heard him are in a quandary to know what is his policy beyond that of opposing measures inaugurated by the Republicans for the welfare of the people, on the grounds that Democrats must see nothing good in what Republicans do.

The Republicans in Mr. Cornwell's own county are greatly encouraged over the situation there and the recent Sturge's meeting at Romney, the candidate's home, was one of the best on record. The Democrats are fighting over the legislative ticket and many of them are not at all pleased over his position on the tax question. It wouldn't be surprising if the nominee got a licking in his own bailiwick.

The Kingwood Argus, an influential Democratic journal, represents its party very ably on the tariff question. The Argus is for free trade and the editor answering a communication of the New York Reform Club stated frankly that he would reduce the duties "with an axe." Do the voters of West Virginia endorse that kind of doctrine? We don't think so and the result in November will prove it.

The Democratic party thought the registration laws were all right during the quarter of a century it was in power in this state, but now that the Republicans are in ascendancy that party has conceived the idea that those laws are all wrong. Thus, it gives to the question one of politics only and is foolish enough to ask the Republicans to do what it would not do itself.

Leonidas White, a prominent man of Camden, who has been a life long Democrat, will vote this year for Roosevelt and Fairbanks. Mr. White owns three mills and employs 100 men, most of whom will vote as their employer. Mr. White knows what is good for his business and his position will be that of thousands of others of business Democrats in this state.

Republicans collected $784,733.67 more license taxes in the past seven years of their administration than the Democrats in the previous seven years, an average yearly increase of $112,104.81. The Republican party is the party of business principles. Do you want a change back to the careless and lack-advisal methods of Democracy?

The total increased revenue from charter taxes in the past seven years of Republican administration was nearly a million and a quarter of dollars, which went directly into the coffers of the state for public use. That is now the new Dawson law has worked and its wisdom has been triumphantly demonstrated.

Republicans have not increased the taxation of the state one mill and yet they have collected hundreds of thousands of dollars more in taxes than the Democrats. That's the Republican way of doing business.

The young Republican voters of Wheeling are just now engaged in the organization of marching clubs and the example of the young Republicans of Wheeling might be imitated with profit elsewhere.

The Republican party is the party that does things. The Democratic party is a party of promises, and false ones, too, as its record shows.

And poor old Barnes could not get away from that idea of Andy's intellect and there he stopped so far as Andy was concerned.

The facts and figures are all on the Republican side, the bluff and bluster with the Democrats.

CORNWELL IS CALLED

By One Who Was in Charleston When Dawson Corporation Law Passed and Is Shown Where He Stands.

To Editors of Telegram:
Senator Cornwell, in his speech in the opera house on Tuesday evening, took occasion to ridicule the Dawson Corporation Law. Whether he did this through ignorance or supposed that all present were unacquainted with the facts is hard to determine. Now, the writer was present in Charleston when the legislature passed the Dawson corporation law and knows that Senator Cornwell voted against what he termed in his tirade against Mr. Dawson as the "tramp" corporation law. Let us see, Mr. Cornwell, what are the facts:

The Dawson corporation laws has averaged the magnificent sum of $252,920.55 every year from 1897. This sum is paid into the state treasury by foreign corporations. For seven Democratic years prior the average was $50,150.00. Yet, Mr. Cornwell, who says he has the interest of the state at heart, voted against the Dawson corporation bill.

Now, a word or two may be in order as to what kind of a corporation law the Democratic party had on their statute books. For the sum of fifty dollars and a few dollars in fees any old jag could get a charter with a capital of any sum up to five millions. A Klondike freeze-out concern was issued a charter as quickly as a legitimate business concern with a paid up capital of five millions. As stated above any old thing—illegitimate, bastard or air castle—could get a charter under our Democratic laws, if he had the price to pay the Oileys and the Chiltons.

The Dawson corporation law has weeded out these fakes and frauds. A foreign company with twenty-five dollars can not come into our state and get a charter with a paid up capital of $25,000. Now they have to pay a license tax, as Mr. Cornwell well knows, on the amount of their capital stock.

In other words Mr. Cornwell might preach that sermon down in Hampshire, but up here in Harrison county it looks like he should eat some cabbage and get ahead.
